

BROKE UP

Church Social And Youths
Are Arrested

Girls Caused The Arrest Of
The Offenders

(Coshocton Times)

Warrants were issued Tuesday morning for the arrest of six men who visited a social given last Saturday night by the mission class of the Coneyville M. E. Sunday school, became intoxicated, flourished dirk knives, drove fractious horses through the crowd, threw beer bottles, swore and used vile language, and summing it all up, painted the social a deep scarlet.

The names of the men who broke up the social and against whom the affidavits were filed in Squire Staats' court, are:

Martin Guillemans, Davis Hollow.
Cecil Minor, Glosser settlement.
Archie Hankins, Coneyville.
Manning Taylor, Davis settlement.
William Baker, Davis Hollow.
Bennett Corder, near Coneyville.

Six young ladies of Coneyville, all members of the Mission Class in the Coneyville M. E. church, who gave the social, came to Coshocton this morning on the Wheeling train, accompanied by Rev. C. M. Gay the pastor of the church and they jointly signed each affidavit.

Warrants were then issued by Squire Staats to Deputy Sheriff Jas. McDonald who left to place the "half dozen" under arrest. The girls state that one of the young men, Cecil Minor, came up this morning from Coneyville on the same train they did, the morning Wheeling, and that they watched but did not see him alight from the car. Whether he is leaving for a trip or came to Coshocton could not be learned.

There is absolutely not a good word for the actions of the young men. The Times talked to a number of people in Coneyville and vicinity and all stated that the actions of the boys were the actions of a bunch of rowdies; that they were an insult to the young ladies who gave the social and to the neighborhood.

They were all drunk according to advices and their language was repulsive in the extreme. Lives were endangered repeatedly, when the young men whooping and yelling drove fractious horses wildly through the very crowd at the social.

TURNED

His Automobile Into A Large
Tree

To Avoid Hitting Another
Automobile

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Camp narrowly escaped injury while driving in their automobile on West High street Tuesday evening. Mr. Camp was running the machine and had just turned on High street from one of the drives leading into Riverside park when the large car, owned by Mr. Frank Young, was seen standing directly in front of the Camp car and a very short distance away. In order to escape hitting the other automobile, Mr. Camp gave the steering wheel a twist and sent his automobile directly against a tree. The front end of the hood was badly damaged and the large glass windshield was broken. No one was injured in the accident although the machine was running at fairly good speed when the collision took place.

It was afterward learned that Mr. Young had some trouble with his tires and caused his car to come to a standstill in the middle of the street until some repairs could be made. He was busy with the tires when the accident happened.

Mr. Howard Levering returned to his home in Mt. Vernon Wednesday after spending several days in Cleveland.

VITAL WASHINGTON NEWS

TAVENNER, "WRITER AND THINKER," GIVES US THE FACTS AS THEY REALLY EXIST.

Washington, D. C., June 14.—Thirty-five dollar wastepaper packets, 298 desks and 320 tables were some of the little economies effected by Postmaster General Hitchcock in furnishing his "red room" and "brown room" offices. These and other striking examples of Republican cut-to-the-quick economy were revealed in testimony taken before the House committee on expenditures in the postoffice department.

Mr. Hitchcock sanctioned the expenditure of $7,500 in refurnishing three rooms, $4,000 of which went to furnishing the Postmaster General's private office alone. Circassian walnut furnishings, especially designed and manufactured to special order, and specially designed carpets and draperies furnished the nucleus of this expenditure.

All supplies were bought without subjecting the lucky dealer who secured the contracts to competition. He had but to state his price and secure an order upon the treasury. Five hundred and forty dollars purchased two mahogany davenport for American royalty; $330 brought in two arm chairs; $98 produced a table; $295 purchased a second desk, and $160 a third. A wardrobe to hang coats in cost $265. One rug was purchased at $483.75. Another davenport in Circassian walnut "with pillow" cost Uncle Sam $365; draperies in one room, $600. Parquetry flooring in one room, $282. Telephone table, $64. Table with black marble top, $64. One bookcase, $196. It cost the people $352 to "scrape" the woodwork in the private office preparatory to new finish. Three hundred and twenty-two dollars bought a "Doten-Dunton decoration" on the walls of the private office.

Such was the measure of Mr. Hitchcock's economy in matters pertaining to his own personal comfort. In matters concerning the employees of the government—the railway mail clerks for instance—he followed entirely different lines of procedure.

Mr. Hitchcock figured it out one day that by making three mail clerks do the work of four, he could make a record for economy. The already over-worked railway mail clerks were driven beyond the limit of endurance. Conditions in the west, especially in the Tenth division, became intolerable. Open rebellion broke out on the Pierre-Tracy line, the men refusing to do the extra work imposed upon them. Ten men were suspended. Then five of them were reinstated, but refused to return to work without their associates. This aroused the whole northwest. The clerks met in mass meeting at St. Paul, Minn. They are now forcing the Postmaster General to relent in his plan to economize by overworking the railway mail boys.

Strange workings of the Hitchcock economy bump caused the Postmaster General to pay the full year salary of $6,000 to A. W. Lawshe, third assistant postmaster general, while the latter sojourned in New Mexico recuperating in health and looking after the interests of the Republican party, but performing no government service whatever.

Still another example of Hitchcock economy was his appointment of a pseud "lame duck commission" or four of his intimate friends and staunch political supporters to go on a sort of Holy Grail conquest at the government's expense. The commission investigated "time recorders" in every large city in the country, managing to disburse in expenses $1,370.24.

The average amount spent by each man for subsistence was between nine and ten dollars a day. Transportation expenses for each man during periods of less than two months, averaged $300. Among many items of expenditure charged to and paid by Uncle Sam appear barber fees, bath charges, telephone bills, shines, newsstand charges, in fact almost everything possible in such a category except laundry, cigars and florists' bills. The aristocratic Hotel Willard in Washington, the Astor in New York and kindred hostilities were employed to shelter the government emissaries. Porter fees average 50 cents. All the "commissioners" purchased Pullman tickets, and cab fares are thickly sprinkled among the vouchers. Sometimes the commissioners traveled alone, but generally together, as behooves any well-ordered, pleasure loving government committee.

How gratifying all this must be to the discharged postal employees while they sit and figure out how much the government is "saving" on them.

Senate Committeeships

The senate committees are now all formed for the session. Some of the committee appointments appear to have been singularly appropriate.

Senator Du Pont is chairman of the senate committee on military affairs. It is appropriate to the last degree that Du Pont should head this committee, inasmuch as the senator is also the head of the powder trust. Mr.

Dupont as chairman of the military affairs committee is in a position to buy powder for the government, and as head of the powder trust to sell powder for the combine.

It is appropriate, too, that Senator Guggenheim should be made chairman of the committee on the Philippines, and a member of the committee on agriculture and forestry, on conservation of natural resources, mines and mining and public lands. Considering Guggenheim's connection with the Morgan-Guggenheim Alaska syndicate, notorious for its exploitation projects and its prominence in the Ballinger scandal, it is singularly appropriate the committeeships happened to fall as they did.

Senator Crane is a member of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. When the late Mr. Elkins was its head the committee referred bills intended to curb the telegraph and telephone monopoly to a subcommittee of which Crane was chairman. Crane is the largest holder of telephone and telegraph general electric stock in the world. The bills never got out of the committee pigeonholes.

Most appropriate (or inappropriate) of all is the appointment of Senator Lorimer to the committee on agriculture and forestry. As a member of the house committee on agriculture Lorimer fought the pure food measures and the anti-butterfat law for the Chicago beef trust, and there is little doubt but that the Stock Yards boss is under even more obligations to the beef trust now than he was while a representative.

It will be noted that the designation of this committee in the senate is "agriculture and forestry." Lorimer's interest in forestry might be explained by Mr. Hines, that prominent member of the lumber trust who "put him over."

M'MILLEN

Chosen Superintendent Of Newark Schools

Newark, Ohio, June 14.—After a factional fight among the members of the board of education, Supt. Simpkins, a candidate for re-election, lost out, as the board at a meeting last night chose J. V. McMillen of Marietta, at a salary of $2,500 annually.

Several days ago rumor that Supt. Simpkins had withdrawn his application for re-election, was denied. The board had several meetings at which the matter of choosing a superintendent was brought up and discussed, and some acrimony was evidenced. At last night's meeting, the plum was given to the Marietta man, who is one of the best educators in the state.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF WAYS

Brother of Attending Physician Says
Suspicious Circumstances Attended
Last Hours—Mrs. Jessie Way-Henkle,
Friend of Mrs. Laura Schenk,
Declares Innocence of Poison Plot
Against Stepdaughter, While Latter
Says Jealousy Was Cause.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 14.—As a sequence to the arrest at Delaware, O., of Mrs. Jessie Way-Henkle, on the charge of attempting to poison her stepdaughter, Wheeling relatives of Edward S. Way, former husband of Mrs. Henkle, who died April 19, 1909, have asked the authorities to exhume Way's body and examine it for traces of poisoning. Way's relatives say he became ill suddenly, although he had been in robust health. Dr. H. E. Wilson, who attended Way, is now in Omaha, but his brother, Dr. R. M. Wilson, says there were suspicious circumstances surrounding Way's death. Dr. Wilson also treated Mrs. Way at his hospital.

HENKLE IN TIGHT PLACE

Has Hard Time Choosing Between
Wife and Daughter.

Delaware, O., June 14.—That Mrs. Jessie Way-Henkle administered poison to her stepdaughter, Merle Henkle, in a glass of grapefruit, is the charge made by County Detective Matthews, who caused the arrest of the woman. Mrs. Henkle is out on $2,000 bond.

"Before God, I'm not guilty," Mrs. Henkle declares. "Merle and I have been like sisters."
"I was poisoned. I am positive of it. I have been drinking poison daily since I took sick," the young victim declares, lying on a white cot in the hospital. The poison has partially paralyzed her, temporarily. She has lost the full use of her limbs and has wasted away pitifully.

J. D. Henkle, father of the victim and husband of the accused, is badly broken. Confronted with the necessity of siding with either his wife or daughter, he is undecided. He is a traveling salesman and is prominent here.

Mrs. Henkle, who is 56 and a bride of five months, is a friend of Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, tried in Wheeling for poisoning her husband. Mrs. Henkle, then Mrs. Edward Way, lived in Wheeling. Her first husband died there, leaving her with two young boys. During the trial of the Schenk case Mrs. Henkle read the trial reports closely. County officials working on the case say that the details are somewhat similar.

Knocked Revolver From Hand
Of Hold-Up Man

Pittsburg, June 14.—Blanche Kelso, aged 16 and pretty, was held up by two masked highwaymen on a lonely road last night while on her way to her home in Ingram.

The girl threw up her hands in response to a command, but in doing so quickly knocked the revolver from the hands of one of the robbers. They tried to strangle her, but she fought desperately and would not relax her grip on the weapon.

The plucky girl turned the revolver on the men and they fled leaving her in the road.

The girl's father, who is the village blacksmith, found her. He and Chief of Police Joseph Bannon led a posse that searched the hills for several hours. They finally arrested two Italians, whom the girl has identified as her assailants. She said that when they found she had no money they tried to drag her into a thicket.

RAPPED

The Lukewarm Folks Did
Rev. Billy Sunday

Erie, Pa., June 14.—Rev. "Billy" Sunday said in his sermon yesterday afternoon that the majority of people who most object to the preaching of ministers are those who are averse to divine rule, and they use an avowed dislike for the clergymen as the reason for not attending church.

Sunday said: "I don't give a snap of my finger for half of the people in the church today because they are not endeavoring to save anybody. The trouble with the church is that its members go through their weekly maneuvers in a mechanical sort of way. They are not in earnest; are not attempting to save souls. Another reason why the church is not advancing is that it has too many traitors in its membership. Too many church members are like a man endeavoring to climb a greased pole—they make motions, but they never get anywhere."

"Because the devil has enthusiasm and gives people a good time while working for him, and permits them to laugh and smile, are two of the reasons why he succeeds."

Miss Grace Conrad of North Liberty went to Bryan, O., Wednesday to spend several days with relatives.

Mr. B. F. Hammond of Millwood is the guest of relatives in Columbus.
